

TIFF has the most Oscar-nominated festival films, overtaken Cannes in the recent decade

The Toronto International Film Festival reached its peak Oscar nomination rate of 18% in 2018, bolstered by its reputation as one of the most accessible major film festivals for general audiences.

Each line represents the Oscars nomination percentage of films from a major festival in a given year.

Chart: Haiyi Bi, Data source: IMDb datasets, The Awards Database @ Oscars.org